WESTERN MICHIGAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Fifth Annual Meeting at Reed City.

The Largest and Most Successful Gathering of the Knights of the Quill.

A Royal Banquet Served by the Hospitable People of Reed City—An Appreciative Railroad Company.

From Cheboygan to the Sault—The Messenger—The Trip—The "Soo"—The Reception—The Drive and Shooting of the Rapids—The Banquet at the Chippewa House—The Return—Meeting on Shipboard—Experience Meeting—Concert—Our Own Guests.

The meeting of the Western Michigan Press association at Reed City Tuesday and Wednesday of this week was a remarkable success, both in attendance, interest developed at the sessions and the hospitable treatment by the good people of Reed City. Of the latter too much cannot be said. The banquet provided by them Tuesday evening was such an one as ye hungry editor seldom has the good fortune to have thrown in his way, and for once at least in their lives they had an opportunity to obtain a square meal, and none are reported as having failed in their duty. The papers read at the different sessions were practical, interesting and instructive, and all were well received and attentively listened to. The President, Hon. J. W. Hine, of the Lowell Journal, presided gracefully and efficiently. E. L. Sprague, of the Traverse Bay Eagle, as Secretary, filed the bill, and the success of the meeting throughout showed that the executive committee had attended carefully to all requirements necessary to insure success. Thirty odd new members joined the association. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Hon. W. L. Sellers, Cedar Springs Clipper.

Vice President—Robert Smith, Ithica Journal.

Secretary—C. S. Hampton, Harbor Springs Independent.

Treasurer—W. P. Nesbitt, Big Rapids Herald.

Executive Committee—Hon. J. W. Hine, Lowell Journal, and C. E. Barnes, Reed City Clarion.

REED CITY.

Where the meeting was held, is situated at the crossing of the F. & P. M. and G. R. & I. railroads, is, like all Northern Michigan towns, growing and prosperous. Has already a number of manufacturing industries established; has an efficient system of water works, the efficiency of which was exhibited to the representatives of the press Thursday evening; has well conducted schools, churches, and its business men are live and progressive. It boasts of one of the handsomest Opera Houses in northern Michigan, in which the Association met; has good hotels, the New-Heath we can vouch for as being most excellently managed. The citizens are whole souled and hospitable, and did everything to make the meeting a pleasant one.

THE GRAND RAPIDS AND INDIANA

railroad company has ever been courteous to the members of the press, and the Western Michigan Press Association has every reason to remember that company for numerous favors received. They not only invariably pass all editors free to and from all meetings of the Association when required to travel over that road, but on several occasions, as on the present, have given the fraternity and their ladies free excursions over the road, always looking after the comfort and pleasure of the party. The management appreciate the services of the press in the development of Northern Michigan, and show their appreciation whenever occasion affords, in a manner that causes them to be agreeably remembered by the newspaper men of this part of the state.

THE RAILROAD EXCURSION.

About 2 p. m. Wednesday the party, to the number of eighty odd, composed of ladies and gentlemen, boarded the train at Reed City, and departed northward, under the charge of that prince of conductors, J. T. Flaherty, a gentleman in every sense of the word. The boys and girls all gave evidence that having given up the cares of business and home, they were bent on having a good time—and they had it. Everybody was happy. At Petoskey Conductor Flaherty tarried the train long enough to give the party time to pass through the Atlington House, H. O. Rose acting as pilot. By the time Mackinaw City was reached, all were ready for supper, and the Wentworth dining room was made the objective point by the hungry crowd, but the management was equal to the occasion, and all were satisfied. The Michigan Central extended the courtesies of the road, and passed the party to Cheboygan free, where they were landed on time Wednesday night. The following list comprises the names of most of the editorial fraternity, with the number of ladies accompanying each:

Rozelle Rose, and two ladies; A. V. Phister, and wife; Otis Fuller; J. A. P. Mason; R. A. Maynard and wife; J. W. Fitzgerald and wife; E. O. Rose and three daughters; T. J. Peach; W. P. Nesbitt; J. R. Doughty and three ladies; H. Potts and wife; Ren. Barker and wife; H. M. Rose and wife; E. R. Reed and wife; J. W. Hallack and wife; C. E. Barnes and two ladies; T. L. Arnold; Geo. A. B. Cook and wife; George Seales; G. W. Perry; Fred A. Hull; J. T. Cobb; L. S. Russell and lady; F. H. Rose; W. F. Stawson and wife; C. S. Hampton and two ladies; J. K. Fairchild; Robert Smith and wife; C. T. Chapin and wife; Orno Strong; C. C. Phillips; E. J. Kelly; J. W. Hine and two ladies; L. M. Sellers and two ladies; E. L. Sprague and three ladies; J. W. Long, wife, and daughter; A. J. Aldrich and wife; J. Mosher; E. R. Powell; Fred Gay; J. R. Hill and wife; C. W. Clough; P. A. Ower and wife; W. A. Goodman; D. E. Alward; C. J. Wolf, correspondent Detroit Free Press.

At 10 p. m. Wednesday the TRIBUNE man boarded the Messenger at her wharf. Mr. Sanford Baker, wife, Miss Lillie Baker, with her friend, Miss Guest, Mr. Adams and wife, parents of Mr. John Adams, here on a visit from Detroit, Mr. H. H. Packard and wife, and Judge Sutton, were in the cabin, booked for the trip. Mr. and Mrs. Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. Adams, were at a game of whist, softening the while with long-ago memories, bright and vivid in the relaxed pastimes of silvered and respected age. The whistle of the arriving train, the noisy hack, the dray, and the association, bag and baggage, followed in quick succession to the steamer; the captain and his clerk received the tourists cordially. The state-rooms being insufficient, cots were prepared, and soon the Messenger slipped out into the straits, and the excursionists hied to their beds to cover the dark night in sound sleep.

THE TRIP.

In the morning, after a calm voyage—sound sleep prepared the sight seers for the glories of St. Mary's river. Lake George was reached about sun rise. This is one of the most beautiful handiworks of nature, and the busy pens of seventy-five editors will make it familiar to many who may not have the like opportunities. The hills on the sides rising higher as they widen out from many miles of water surface, covered with forest green, and right ahead mountain shaped crowns reveal, as we approach, that the channel has cleft their breasts, leaving them quietly watching its incessant flow—all this in the grey of the morning charms, soothes, and inspires the heart. That is but one view. The sun, as it rises, works its wonders, and the journey here will give one every shade and tint of landscape, not for grandeur, but in quiet beauty it is sweet and soft, no place more so.

There followed in our wake several steamers, the Campana, with black hull streaked of white, overhauled us between the Georges. She plies from Collingwood to Prince Arthur's Landing. There was aboard hardy, bronzed fellows with their wives and children for the great west, and the upper cabin had its share of tourists, the Londoner and swell with glass and Dundreary fatigue airs, showing himself so out of place with the brawny northwest. More speed than us, handkerchief bunted the air and we kept on our quiet way.

THE "SOO."

At the wharf 9 1/2 a. m. the committee from the village soon programmed the pleasures of the visit. The Court House, a strong and neat building, being the place of ceremony.

THE RECEPTION.

Dr. Harding, President of the village, welcomed the Press Association in behalf of that generous people. The address was a pleasant surprise, short, tuned to sense and in every way befitting. The applause it received was well deserved. The duties of the press happily referred to the differences in politics and religion softens them down to individual freedom. Truth widening her spirit, embracing all, it was not difficult to guess that the President was a part of New England culture, that in the west so strikingly distinguishes great strength with intellectual leanings. Taste and judgement with broad views of life making it pleasant and lovable were the mission of the newspaper.

The reply of Mr. Hine, President of the Association, was of equal spirit. To his credit he knows what to say and when to stop.

THE DRIVE.

Every vehicle was at the command of the visitors. Soon all were off toward Hay Lake a few miles below the city. Wheeled out as fast as horse flesh could take us we were soon in view of the many islands at the Little Rapids. These islands are many—in profusion, and close neighbors, very small, a few paces and several acres in surface, but mantled with green trees. The water is transparent and looking down, the islets are etched type to every color, the sky looking back with cloud and sun. This is a place worthy a call for nature woes and wins your spirit to her own. Then back and up on the table land there are several farms cared for and well tilled. This table land is of miles and as cleared agriculture will add strength to this flourishing town.

THE SHOOTING OF THE RAPIDS

was in canoes deep of hold. They contained seven each. However there was one larger. They were manned by two muscular fellows, one at prow the other at stern, the visitors soon were squatted in their keels, and those sturdy fellows, with poles used alternately at ends, soon pressed their way to the head. It was labor and exciting labor. Bends of sweat trickled down their faces as they tried to pass each other. When in the desired spot they fled with the foaming waves, and it was shooting. Nothing of motion compares with it. Washed by spray you are hurried as fast as desirable. The danger is provided for by caution, and there are no accidents. In our being shot through, the ladies were as nonchalant as the sterner sex in the perils of the foaming, dashing rapids of the "Soo."

THE BANQUET.

The ladies had their dinner at 12 a. m. The banquet was at 2 p. m. The menu was choice. The Chippewa House—airy, neat, cottage-like, its dining tables were full of everything that was good—from a speckled trout to ice cream and oranges. Toasts were in order. There was no wine but a better spirit was there, that of generous hospitality and its appreciation. The Hon. Geo. W. Brown spoke, and then Mr. Seymour. The speeches were another relish. Mr. Seymour is our Senator; he is a man of culture, and it is of that the guests were delighted. The reply was from the President of the Association. Then a shaking of hands, we go aboard, and the "Soo" with its fresh memories, is lost behind the hills as the Messenger speeds away home.

THE RETURN.

Homeward each quietly sauntered or lolled as case suggested. The beauties of the trip were forging expression through each brain. At night and after supper, the Association were called together in the dining saloon. Quips of humor called for laughter. The rural poet and poetess was put in fancy frames—all tending to the finer pleasures. Some of the ladies and gentlemen entertained the crowd with choice bits of song, and one young lady, with voice calm and sweet, finished up the pleasures of an evening that with all, it is hoped, will be a tender memory.

OUR OWN GUESTS.

We were late, and being expected at 10 p. m. sharp, the committee to receive them dispersed. When we got to the wharf it was half hour past midnight. However, the Grand Central and Spencer House opened their doors to receive them. After a sleep and breakfast yesterday they busied themselves looking over our village. Then after dinner they went to old Mackinaw by way of the Island, and it is hoped that they will complete a trip that promises to familiarize journalists personally with the upper lake region and its resources. The best of this junketing is in the introduction of men of brain to the more genial form of generous life. Sympathies are aroused, courtesies are cultivated and the newspaper which is now the educator, with pure aims and high impulses cannot but leave their impress on their readers.
